

Don't seller inspections kill deals by forcing sellers to disclose defects?

Any defect that is material enough to kill a real estate transaction is likely going to be uncovered eventually anyway. It is best to discover the problem ahead of time, before it can kill the deal.